This course has been submitted to ILETSB and approved for the following mandated training requirements: Constitutional/Proper Use of Law Enforcement Authority, Law Concerning Stops, Searches, and Use of Force, and Officer Safety Techniques.

Course: This two-day, 16-hour course is designed to teach officers proper building search and room clearing tactics. The focus of this program is to provide officers with the knowledge and specialized tactical skills they will need to perform these tasks safely and efficiently. This course is part of the Illinois Tactical Officers Association Tactical Patrol Officer (TPO) and is one of eight courses required to attain the TPO designation.

- Who Should Attend: Patrol CQB and Building Searches is a must for all officers so that they may acquire the skills needed to safely and effectively perform building clearing and search tactics. The course content relates to a wide variety of police operations and is a great prerequisite to active threat response training.

Course Content:

- To provide students with an understanding of law enforcement authority and the use of force laws.
- Identify and discuss theories and concepts of close quarter battle (CQB) and building search techniques.
- To familiarize students with hallway movements, to include the ability to move as a team, demonstrate proper weapon control techniques, the use of cover and concealment, and proper communications skills.
- To provide students with proper room entry skills, including movement as a team, establishing points of domination, room clearing and scanning techniques, use of cover and concealment, communication skills with officers, victims, and suspects, and demonstrate proper weapons control techniques.
- To assist participants in improving arrest team tactics to the concept of employing the use of a contact and cover officer, proper formation for approaching a suspect to be taken into custody, the use of cover and concealment when calling a subject back to officers, and proper weapons control techniques.
- To allow students to participate in realistic scenario-based training and demonstrate their ability to perform building searching/room clearing operational skills
